

BYU FALL 2020 CLASS OPTIONS

In Fall 2020, BYU is offering a variety of learning environments designed to facilitate learning, community, and safety. This chart will help you mix and match your learning options as you register for classes this fall.

	CLASSROOM 	BLENDED 	LIVE REMOTE DELIVERY 	ON-DEMAND REMOTE DELIVERY
What does this type of class look like?	Classes will be taught in-person, on-campus on the days and hours listed in the Class Schedule. (Social distance and other safety measures will be implemented.)	Classes will be a mixture of in-person and on-campus instruction and online components. Students should be available on the days and hours listed in the Class Schedule.	Classes will be conducted entirely in LIVE (synchronous), online sessions (using Zoom or similar tools) on the days and hours listed in the Class Schedule. Students will not attend class on-campus.	Classes will be conducted entirely online using ON-DEMAND (asynchronous) digital course materials, such as video lectures. Students will not attend class on-campus.
Will I meet in a classroom on campus?	Yes	Yes (some of the time)	No	No
Am I expected to meet at the scheduled time for the class?	Yes	Yes	Yes (online)	No
Will I have the opportunity to interact with other students?	Yes	Yes	Yes, in Zoom class sessions and possibly through in-person or remote study groups.	Varies, possibly through in-person or remote study groups.
Can I take a “BYU Online” class as one of my options?	Yes. “BYU Online” is online university course delivery that existed before and will continue to exist after COVID-19. “BYU Online” classes are designated by a header in the Class Schedule, and they may still be taught in blended, live, or on-demand formats.
Will I have support if I need help in my class?	Yes! You will not be learning on your own. No matter what types of classes you choose, BYU is committed to providing students with support. Professors and TAs are doing their best to make sure that you will have the help you need, whether you are in person or online.
Are there classes that allow me to go at my own pace?	Not really, even online classes still have due dates and deadlines throughout the semester! All class types will follow a university semester schedule including a finals schedule. (See academiccalendar.byu.edu .)
What if I am concerned about my health?	If you are not comfortable coming to campus, we anticipate there will be sufficient Live Remote and On-Demand Remote courses available. You can contact your advisement center for more guidance.
