Foreign Language Student Residence

The Foreign Language Student Residence (FLSR) is an ideal setting and experience for visiting students with interest in foreign language who may also be considering or returning from missionary service, especially in foreign countries. If you are interested in living in the FLSR, you can find additional information at the following link: <http://www.byu.edu/oncampushousing/flsr.shtml>

Mission Deferments

Serving a full-time mission is an important decision in the life of any Latter-day Saint. We want to help you prepare to embark on your mission knowing that you can easily transition back to BYU when you return. To keep track of everything you need to do to defer for your mission, please visit the OneStop Missionary Checklist¹.

Review the terms and conditions of the mission deferment listed below:

Deferment Conditions

BYU students who want to defer their enrollment while serving an LDS mission must complete the online missionary deferment. To defer both enrollment and scholarships without having to reapply to the university, the following conditions should be met:

- Be admitted to Brigham Young University as a degree-seeking student
- Cannot be on academic suspension or dismissal
- Return to BYU for the semester/term indicated on your deferment
- Have a current ecclesiastical endorsement

Timing:

Timing is an essential part of the deferment process. As you can imagine, with so many missionaries coming and going, we need to make sure that our enrollment is manageable.

- We encourage students who are intending to serve LDS missions to apply to the University before serving a mission. In order to defer, a student must first be admitted to BYU. The deferment is for LDS missionary service only.
- The deferment must be submitted after receiving a call, but prior to the end of the semester in which you are due to enroll. This applies to all students, both newly admitted and those that have continuing status.
- Those admitted for spring and summer terms will have until the end of fall semester to submit their deferment.
- If you plan to enroll for a semester or term prior to leaving on your mission, you must register for classes before submitting the deferment. Submitting a deferment blocks your eligibility to register for classes.
- For continuing students, a leave of absence² may be taken directly prior to your deferment. A leave of absence may not be taken during the first semester to which a student is admitted. This includes the first semester you are returning from your mission.
- You must enroll at BYU within a certain amount of time after you return from your mission. Consider the following chart as you determine what semester or term you indicate you will return following the completion of your mission. Remember that you must attend the semester or term to which you defer:

Return From Mission	Enroll No Later Than
October - April	Fall Semester
May - September	Winter Semester

- An ecclesiastical endorsement must be completed by your mission president before you will be able to register for classes. You must initiate the endorsement online at endorsement.byu.edu. Think about initiating your endorsement 2-3 months prior to your registration date.
- If you return from your mission earlier than originally anticipated please make an appointment to meet with an admissions counselor regarding your plans. To make an appointment simply contact OneStop Services at 801-422-4104. Appointments can be either in person or over the phone. We will do our best to accommodate your return to school in a timely manner, but we must also consider our enrollment limitations.

Now that you have reviewed these conditions, you may access the online missionary enrollment and scholarship deferment³. We wish you all the best as you prepare to serve. Please contact OneStop Services for answers to your deferment questions.

International Student Missionary Deferment

International Services, 1351 WSC, (801) 422-2695

All missionary deferment guidelines also pertain to international students; however, if you are an international student who plans to serve a mission, you should check with International Services regarding special concerns, regulations, or needed actions that are specific to various countries.

Advisement

Prior to leaving you should determine which courses to register for when you return. You may want to meet with an advisor in your college advisement center for help in determining an appropriate schedule.

Important Registration Information

You can contact Records and Registration at B-150 ASB, (801)-422-2631, or records@byu.edu. The class schedules⁴ and catalogs⁵ help you explore majors, courses, and important policy information.

Giving Someone Else Access to Your Account While You Are Gone

BYU must follow federal privacy laws which prevent the release of information to unauthorized third parties (for example, unauthorized parents or guardians). You may authorize a third party to have access to your academic information for registration through guestaccess.byu.edu. The authorized third party will need to have their own Net ID and password in order for you to add them as a guest. For step-by-step instructions, parents can access the Parent of a Missionary Checklist⁶.

It is very important for you to review registration instructions⁷ with your third party. Please choose someone you trust.

Registration Holds

There are several reasons why you may have a hold that prevents registration. If you have a hold, contact the appropriate office⁸ to resolve the issue.

Financial Aid and Scholarships

OneStop Student Services, D-155 ASB, (801) 422-4104

If you are a recipient of scholarships or federal financial aid, you should check with the Financial Aid Office regarding deferment or repayment. See Mission Deferments for Scholarships⁹.

BYU Student Health Plan

2310 SHC, (801) 422-2661 or (801) 422-4460

If you are currently on the student health plan, you must notify the Health Plan Business Office before you leave BYU. You are not eligible for the health plan while you are on your mission. For more information on health plan requirements or obtaining a health plan when you return, please visit heath.byu.edu.

Ecclesiastical Endorsements

A-209 ASB, (801) 422-5000

Before returning to BYU you will need to have a current ecclesiastical endorsement from your mission president. Sometime in the last few months of your mission you will need to initiate an endorsement request at endorsement.byu.edu and make an appointment with your mission president to have the endorsement interview. Once that is complete you should be able to register for classes on your designated registration date.

International Missions

The government requires a TB test after a mission for anyone who serves a mission outside the United States. A student can set up an appointment to have the TB test by calling the Student Health Center at (801) 422-2771. A small fee is charged for the test. The county health department can also administer the test for a minimal fee. If the test is taken at the Utah County Health Department, you will need to fax appropriate documentation to BYU Medical Records at (801) 422-0761.

Although you will be allowed to register for the first semester following your mission, all subsequent registrations will be blocked until documentation of the TB test is received by BYU.

Admitted Students

Off-Campus Housing

Although new students - particularly new freshmen - can benefit from on-campus housing, BYU-s housing facilities cannot accommodate all students. However, BYU has contracted with nearby landlords and complexes to provide approved off-campus housing.

Brigham Young University desires an environment for its single students living on and off campus that is conducive to their moral and spiritual growth as well as their academic performance.

To learn about off-campus housing information, visit housing.byu.edu/offcampus.

If you would like to participate in BYU concurrent enrollment classes, you must be a local high school student. You must also meet the following criteria:

Applicant Types

Former Student

You are considered a Former Student if you have previously been admitted and enrolled as a regular day-time student, and are applying to return to BYU with or without additional credit.

Note: If you have graduated from BYU with a Bachelor's degree, then you are not eligible for undergraduate admission to BYU; please contact our Graduate Studies¹⁸ department for information about continuing your education.

Admission Application Tips

- The deadline to apply as a former student is the same as each semester's appropriate application deadline¹⁹. Former students will be notified of admission decisions approximately 4 weeks after the admission application deadline.

- You will apply at besmart.com using the same NetID and password that you used when previously attending BYU. You will need to update the General Student Information and Ecclesiastical Endorsement parts 20 of the application.
- You may have completed additional credit since attending BYU. If so, you will need to send transcripts showing all work you have completed since attending BYU previously.
- Students who have already been admitted to BYU will not need to re-pay the application fee to re-apply
- Students who have not had day-continuing eligibility, but did participate in Study Abroad or Continuing Education are considered transfer students 21.

Applicant Types

Homeschooled Applicants

As part of the application, you are required to submit any high school or university work completed through an institution accredited by any of the following regional accrediting agencies:

- Middle States Association of Colleges & Schools (MSA)
- New England Association of Schools & Colleges (NEASC)
- North Central Association of Colleges & Schools (NCA)
- Northwest Accreditation Commission (NWAC)
- Southern Association of Colleges & Schools (SACS)
- Western Association of Schools & Colleges (WASC)
- AdvancED

Homeschooled students will be treated as New Freshmen as long as they have not completed any college work following the age when their peers would have graduated from high school. Applicants in this situation will need to take the ACT or SAT.

If their peers have graduated, they will need to take the ACT or SAT until they have completed 24 or more graded college credits.

Applicants who will not graduate from high school or complete secondary school through home schooling as required by the applicant-s state may be required to submit a GED or state recognized high school equivalency exam. If a student will be required to complete a GED or other state recognized high school equivalency exam, it will appear as a requirement on the status page.

For more information on policies regarding our homeschooled applicants and for scholarship information, call Admission Services at (801) 422-5000 and ask to speak with one of our homeschooling specialists.

Applicant Types

Post-baccalaureate Program

Note: This program is not to be confused with BYU Graduate Studies²⁷.

Students who have already earned a bachelor's degree and are not enrolled in a graduate program are not normally admissible to BYU; however, the post-baccalaureate program is designed to allow this kind of student limited access to university resources. The program is usually only available during spring and summer terms (fall and winter resources on campus are reserved for undergraduate students and students who have been officially admitted into a graduate or undergraduate program).

The purpose of this program is to assist a limited number of students who have a bachelor's degree but are not enrolled in a graduate program. Reasons for attending as a post-baccalaureate student are many and varied; a common reason may be students looking for a few more classes to be eligible to apply for a master's program. To be considered for admission to the post-baccalaureate studies program, students should apply online.

Applicants wishing to apply as post-baccalaureates must complete the explanation essay in Part 7 of the application. Applicants should give as much detail as possible regarding the length of time they plan to enroll, the specific coursework needed, and the reasons for specifically attending BYU. Applicants just looking to take a class for personal enrichment, who are pursuing a worthy hobby, or are simply satisfying intellectual curiosity should seek enrollment through continuing education options such as Evening Classes²⁸, Salt Lake Center²⁹, and Independent Study³⁰.

Requirements

- Bachelor's degree from an accredited institution
- Transcripts documenting that a bachelor's degree was received, as well as transcripts from all previously-attended institutions

Restrictions

- This program is only available to applicants during the spring and summer terms
- Post-baccalaureate applicants may not enroll as full-time students.
- Graduate tuition rates apply (view rates³¹)
- This program is not intended to allow applicants to receive a second bachelor's degree or minor
- Any specific questions about eligibility or the program should be discussed with an advisor. Please contact us at 801-422-4104 or through ymessage.byu.edu for more information.
- BYU cannot provide a Form I-20 for international post-baccalaureate students; they must have another form of visa in order to be considered.

Visiting Student Program

During spring and/or summer term, high school graduates who are (or will be) actively pursuing a degree at another college or university are invited to be a part of the BYU community as non-degree-seeking students. While on campus, students in the program will enroll in college-level courses and also enjoy a wide range of BYU cultural and social experiences.

Former students are not eligible to apply for the Visiting Student program.

To be competitive for admission consideration as a visiting student, students will need:

- High school GPA of 2.5 or higher
- Composite ACT score of 18 or SAT of 860 (total of critical reading and math scores only)
- College/university GPA of 2.5 or higher

Admission and enrollment in the BYU Visiting Student Program does not in any way imply continued enrollment at BYU beyond summer term. Students wanting to pursue a degree at BYU must submit an application for undergraduate admission and meet the admission criteria in effect at the time of application.

What campus services are available to me as a visiting student?

Visiting Students are eligible to participate in most of the services and programs available to fully admitted students. These include use of the library, sports facilities, Counseling and Career Center, and participation in student wards, orientation activities, and other social or campus-wide events. Visiting Students are eligible to work on campus; however, Visiting Students are not eligible for federal financial aid or scholarships at BYU.

Who can I contact if I have questions about what classes to take?

If you have questions about what classes to take, please contact the University Advisement Center³². They can be reached at University_Advisement@byu.edu, (801) 422-3826, or toll-free at 1-877-890-5519.

How to Apply

AP/IB Classes

See the current guides on which AP or IB test scores qualify for BYU credit here³⁹.

BYU encourages students to enroll in AP (Advanced Placement) or IB (International Baccalaureate) classes where available. Following are a few of the major benefits of taking these college prep courses:

- Because AP and IB courses are measured by a universal standard, students who take these courses will receive extra consideration in the BYU admission process.
- Depending on the number and type of courses taken, students can receive university credit before even graduating from high school.
- Students who take AP or IB courses are usually more prepared for the rigors of college coursework, as well as the ACT/SAT, because of the study skills, discipline, and knowledge gained while taking such courses.
- Students who take AP and IB courses gain support from motivated peers and mentors.

Is AP/IB right for me?

The decision to take AP or IB courses should be considered carefully by the student, parents, and a school counselor. Students and parents may wish to talk to an AP/IB teacher or coordinator to learn more about the difficulties of a particular course. They will want to be sure to consider the workload and the preparation required for the course. We recommend not taking an AP/IB course unless students can maintain at least a B+ average.

Sending AP Scores to BYU

If BYU has not received your AP scores and you wish to receive credit for them, you must do one of the following:

- Contact AP Scores and Reporting Services⁴⁰ to request that your scores be sent to BYU (there will be a fee for this service).
- If your high school has included your AP scores on your transcript, request that they mail us a transcript.

All documents should be mailed to:

CES Admission Processing
A-41 ASB
Provo, UT 84602

Sending IB Scores to BYU

Official IB high school transcripts or a transcript directly from the IB office will be accepted. If you would like to request your IB transcript, please request it from their website⁴¹.

How to Apply

Acceptance Criteria

Summer Term Advantage

While there is no admission advantage to applying and attending summer term, students who do will have first consideration for fall on-campus housing accommodations and fall class registration.

Comprehensive Admission Review (What we look at...)

Every applicant undergoes the following review process:

1. The first consideration in the review process is the ecclesiastical endorsement. Each applicant must complete the ecclesiastical endorsement as a part of the application to BYU. This includes agreeing to live in harmony with the Honor Code and the Dress and Grooming Standards (BeSmart.com/honorcode⁴²).
2. Each student's academic record is then considered as the foundation and central focus of admission decisions; however, BYU is looking for students who are accomplished in a variety of areas-not just academics. Thus, a certain GPA or ACT score alone does not guarantee admission. The admission committee will pay particular attention to applicants- writing ability as demonstrated by the essay portion of the admission application. Also, transfer students with more than 90 graded semester credit hours are unlikely to be admitted.
3. Each application is then reviewed and evaluated according to the following elements: seminary attendance, service, leadership, personal essays, individual talents, creativity, AP/IB courses taken, unique or special circumstances, and other factors showing a student's ability to strengthen the BYU community.

Note: Students who have completed a bachelor's degree will not be eligible for a second bachelor's degree, but are welcome to apply for BYU graduate programs (visit gradstudies.byu.edu).

College Prep Recommendations*

- Live the standards of the LDS Church
- Attend and graduate from LDS seminary
- Enroll in quality coursework (recommendations)
 - Four years of mathematics
 - Four years of English
 - Two to three years of laboratory science
 - Two years of history or government
 - Two or more years of foreign language
- Take ACT/SAT in junior year and again the fall of senior year (recommended)
- Get involved with extracurricular activities
- Keep in mind the cost-save money!

Please note: BYU recommends that students take these kinds of quality courses, but these are recommendations and not requirements. You should speak with a high school counselor as you plan your high school experience.

Application Parts

General Student Information

This includes:

- Application instructions
- Identification
- Contact information
- Ethnicity
- Religious affiliation
- Educational history (high school & college)
- CES school selection

Once this part is submitted, you will be able to move on to the rest of the application.

Ecclesiastical Endorsement

This part is required for all applicants. You will first be required to read through and agree to abide by the Honor Code and Dress & Grooming Standards (also outlined here⁴⁶). Once this step has been completed, LDS applicants will need to meet with the bishop and a member of the stake presidency from the ward/stake in which their records are located. Currently-serving missionaries will have one interview with their mission president. Start the endorsement process online at endorsement.byu.edu.

Non-LDS applicants have the option of completing the endorsement with their own religious leader or with a local LDS bishop or mission president (to find a local LDS leader, enter your address into the meetinghouse locator tool⁴⁷). Once you have decided how you would like to complete the endorsement, go to endorsement.byu.edu. There you can select a local LDS leader and complete the process using the online tool, or you may request a paper form to take to your preferred religious leader.

Seminary/Institute Attendance

This part of the application addresses each applicant's seminary and/or institute attendance. There are two ways to complete this portion:

Students who are currently attending seminary will not fill out this portion of the application themselves. They will be required to download the instruction sheet found on this part and take it to their seminary teacher, who will then complete the recommendation. If this portion is completed by the applicant instead of the seminary teacher, it will not be accepted.

Students who are not currently attending seminary will fill out this portion of the application themselves. They will also fill out the institute portion of this section. Applicants who did not attend institute because they were taking religion classes at another CES school may explain their situation on the institute section of the application.

Compare and Contrast: AP/IB Classes vs. Concurrent Enrollment

One of the most common questions fielded by the BYU Admissions office centers on the perceived value of concurrent college work when compared to enrollment in AP or IB classes. Certainly, each of these programs has merit! This article will seek to detail the advantages of each, all in an effort to help prospective BYU students make informed decisions about selecting high school courses. In terms of definition, concurrent work for our purposes is enrollment in college level classes while the student is also enrolled in high school. The college classes may be taught online, on the college campus, or on the high school campus. If a student will be earning college credit while still enrolled in high school, and that credit will appear on an official college transcript, we would consider this concurrent college work.

Advantages of Concurrent Enrollment

Transferability - With a few exceptions, almost all freshman-level-or-higher college work will transfer to BYU. However, how they transfer to BYU is the more salient question. Some classes will meet GE/Core requirements, others may fulfill specific classes for majors/minors, and others will transfer as electives. Please visit transfer.byu.edu⁴⁹ to learn more about our transfer credit policy and how specific classes transfer. Additionally, we have transfer guides with more than 30 colleges and universities across the country. These guides⁵⁰ detail specific courses which will transfer from an individual school AND meet GE requirements at BYU.

Less Time to Graduation? - On the surface, this seems like an added benefit to concurrent enrollment. However, BYU's own research is aligning with other schools' findings from across the country: the time saved to graduation is minimal, if any at all. It appears students will find ways - meaningful ways - of using the extra time on campus. Examples include participating in study abroad, securing internships, adding a minor, exploring research opportunities, and enrolling in classes in preparation for graduate school or personal/professional development.

Advantages of AP/IB Enrollment

Higher Standardized Test Scores - BYU's internal research shows students tend to score higher on either the ACT or SAT exam when their high school coursework has included AP/IB enrollment. With the ACT being a curriculum-based exam, preparation in the classroom can be a key component to scoring higher on the standardized exam. AP and IB enrollment appear to demonstrate that relationship.

Higher First-Year GPA at BYU - Students who enter BYU with AP/IB courses as part of the high school experience tend to outperform their non-AP/IB cohorts in terms of first-year GPA at BYU. Admittedly, this is only one metric of student success, but it is an important one.

Earned Credits at BYU - We invite you and your students to visit apib.byu.edu to explore how AP and IB test results impact course equivalencies at BYU. Of the 36 AP exams that earn credit at BYU, 13 will earn credit with a score of 3 or higher. Others will require a 4, while one (AP Statistics) will require a 5.

Extra Consideration in the Admission Process - Due to the research and results mentioned above, BYU is very comfortable offering extra consideration in our admission evaluation for each AP or IB class appearing on a student's high school transcript. While we do not extend the same consideration for honors, college prep, or concurrent enrollment classes, the evidence supports the admission bonus for AP/IB enrollment.

In short, when we are asked about a preference between concurrent enrollment or AP/IB enrollment, BYU is transparent about the benefits of AP and IB enrollment. In terms of getting accepted to BYU, then performing well at BYU, the AP/IB experience tends to put students at a real advantage.

Verifying Transcripts/Scores Have Been Received

Your application will be considered on time if all parts of the application, including all required transcripts and an ACT or SAT score, are submitted on or before the appropriate deadline.

Sometimes it can take a few days for mailed transcripts to be received and processed, especially given the volume of transcripts that arrive in an application season. Please be aware that if your transcripts are postmarked on or before the application deadline they will be considered on time. You will be able to confirm that BYU has received your transcripts by looking at your status page⁵².

If you sent in your transcripts more than two weeks ago and have not seen them applied to your account, please message us via ymessage.byu.edu. Be sure to include the date you had your transcript sent and any other relevant details so that we may be able to locate your documents.

How to Pay

Financial Aid

Federal financial aid is a valuable option to help BYU students pay for their college expenses. BYU offers federal financial aid programs that include Pell Grants, Direct Loans (Subsidized/Unsubsidized), and PLUS Loans for eligible students.

Grants are essentially free money from the government-students are not required to repay them. Student loans, however, must be repaid-but repayment is typically deferred until after graduation.

For information on applying for any of the following types of federal financial aid, see the Financial Aid Website⁵³.

Pell Grant

Pell Grants are available for undergraduates who have not earned a bachelor-s degree. The amount students can qualify for is based on need and enrollment. For more information, see Federal Pell Grants⁵⁴.

Direct Loans

There are two types of Direct Loans: subsidized and unsubsidized. Although they are very similar, the key difference is that the unsubsidized loan accrues interest while students are still in school, while the subsidized loan does not. The type of loan awarded depends on financial need.

PLUS Loans

PLUS Loans are a good option for parents that are trying to help fund their child-s education. This program allows parents to take out a federal loan to help pay for their child-s college-related expenses.

How to Pay

How Much Does it Cost?

How to Pay

Part-Time Work

There are many benefits to working part-time while enrolled as a student at BYU. Part-time employment allows students to gain meaningful work experience, help pay for their expenses, and learn to manage their time. College work experience can also help students build their resumes, gain new skills, develop talents, and provide references for their future careers.

Income earned from part-time work can help pay for tuition, rent, and other expenses incurred while in school. This income may also help reduce reliance on parents or financial aid.

On-Campus Employment

Each year about 15,000 students work on campus. These students enjoy student-friendly schedules ranging from 10-20 hours a week, along with the convenience of working within walking distance of their classes.

To apply for an on-campus job, visit jobs.byu.edu.

Off-Campus Employment

For students who want to gain off-campus work experience, there are also numerous jobs available in the Provo community.

Scholarships

In addition to affordable tuition rates, selected BYU students may qualify to receive a scholarship. BYU seeks to recognize students who have demonstrated academic excellence, leadership skills, financial need, or unique talents.

BYU scholarship funds are provided through tithes of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, along with offerings from generous friends of the university. Scholarships are awarded in order to encourage continued commitment to spiritual and intellectual growth. The gift of a scholarship assumes an obligation on the part of the recipient to use that investment wisely while preparing for continual and purposeful service in the Lord's kingdom.

Academic Awards

Approximately 25 percent of incoming freshmen receive an academic scholarship from the university. Target figures for these awards are as follows:

Thomas S. Monson (multi-year)	50 awarded
Heritage/Nat'l Merit/Presidential	200 awarded
Brigham Young (1 year, full LDS tuition)	400 awarded
Brigham Young (1 year, half LDS tuition)	1,000 awarded

To apply, complete the Scholarship Application⁵⁸.

Scholarships for Former, Transfer, or International Students

The university offers a limited number of scholarships based on financial need and other factors. All new freshmen are automatically eligible for academic scholarships based on the current matrix⁵⁹. Tuition Charges

Tuition

As BYU's sponsor, The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints subsidizes tuition prices with its members' tithing funds. In principle, each student attending BYU is on scholarship.

Tuition
Spring/Summer 2017 Cost			Fall/Winter 2017-2018 Costs
Credit Hours	LDS	Non-LDS	Credit Hours	LDS	Non-LDS
6.0 +	$1,325	$2,650	12.0 +	$2,730	$5,460
4.5 - 5.5	$1,259	$2,518	9.0 - 11.5	$2,594	$5,188
0.5 - 4.0	$276/credit	$552/credit	0.5 - 8.5	$286/credit	$572/credit

Considering that College Board reports the average private four-year tuition and fees as over $29,000, BYU's price tag cannot be beat. Each year, undergraduate students at BYU pay nearly $24,000 less in tuition than other private universities.

International Students

Deposit Policy

In order for students to be successful academically at BYU, they must have a solid financial plan. All international applicants for undergraduate degrees are required to deposit $4,000 in an escrow account at BYU following notification of their admission. Students will not be able to register for classes, nor will any student visa paperwork be initiated until the deposit is paid.

The deposits will be held in escrow with the intent that it will be released to the students during their final semester before graduation. Students who experience unforeseen financial hardship while studying at BYU may petition to use up to $3,000 of their deposit before their final semester. To petition, please contact the Associate Dean of Students, in person at 3500 WSC, by phone at (801) 422-4771, or by email deanofstudents@byu.edu.

International students who find they are unable to cover the costs associated with their continued education at BYU and who have already accessed $3,000 from their deposit will be granted access to the remaining $1,000, which is set aside for the student as an emergency fund for the purchase of a plane ticket to return to their home country.

How to Pay Your Deposit

We recommend students pay their International Student Deposit online. Please login and pay your deposit online:

Evaluating International Work

All secondary education and college work (not US accredited) done outside of the United States must be evaluated by an international credential evaluation agency at the applicant's expense. The CES schools' preferred agency is International Education Research Foundation \(IERF\)⁶⁵. If applying for the evaluation online, be sure to select BYU-Undergraduate as the recipient, as IERF works with a number of BYU departments. This will ensure that your report reaches the correct office. Also, when selecting report type, you must select "detail report." View this video⁶⁶ for more instructions.

We will also accept a report from World Education Services \(WES\)⁶⁷, the required type of evaluation report for high school (secondary education) documents is "DxD", and the required type of evaluation report for college or university documents is "CxX".

DO NOT send your transcripts directly to us unless they are an accredited US institution. We will discard any international transcripts that are not properly evaluated.

International Acceptance Criteria

Comprehensive Admission Review (What we look at...)

Every applicant undergoes the following review process:

1. The first consideration in the review process is the ecclesiastical endorsement. Each applicant must complete the ecclesiastical endorsement as a part of the application to BYU. This includes agreeing to live in harmony with the Honor Code and the Dress and Grooming Standards (BeSmart.com/honorcode⁶⁷).
2. Each student's academic record is then considered as the foundation and central focus of admission decisions; however, BYU is looking for students who are accomplished in a variety of areas-not just academics. Thus, a certain GPA or ACT score alone does not guarantee admission. The admission committee will pay particular attention to applicants- writing ability as demonstrated by the essay portion of the admission application. Also, transfer students with more than 90 graded semester credit hours are unlikely to be admitted.
3. Each application is then reviewed and evaluated according to the following elements: seminary attendance, service, leadership, personal essays, individual talents, creativity, AP/IB courses taken, unique or special circumstances, and other factors showing a student's ability to strengthen the BYU community.

Note: Students who have completed a bachelor's degree will not be eligible for a second bachelor's degree, but are welcome to apply for BYU graduate programs (visit gradstudies.byu.edu).

Statement on Admission Consideration

The university considers for admission any individual who meets all of the university's admission standards and submits a completed application within appropriate deadlines. There is no specific question in the admission application requiring a disclosure of an applicant's legal status. In the application, the prospective student is required to designate a home country. If the home country is anything other than the United States, information is provided to assist the applicant in understanding immigration requirements for acquisition of a student visa. Also, if in the application process international educational credentials are submitted, questions concerning visa status may arise.

BYU is required by law and university policy to ask for citizenship only when an applicant is requesting financial aid or seeking employment. Undocumented immigrants are usually faced with significant financial challenges since federal, state, and university need-based financial aid and scholarship funds are not available to them. Additionally, undocumented immigrants are limited in meeting financial concerns because they cannot legally work on or off campus and have no legal way to work in the United States after graduation.

Application Parts

General Student Information

This part contains general student information, including:

- Application instructions
- Identification
- Contact information
- Ethnicity
- Religious affiliation
- Educational history (high school & college)
- CES school selection

Once this part is submitted, the applicant will be able to move on to the rest of the application.

Ecclesiastical Endorsement

This part is required of all student applicant types. Applicants will first be required to read through and agree to abide by the Honor Code and Dress & Grooming Standards (also outlined here⁷²). Once this step has been completed, LDS applicants will need to meet with the bishop and a member of the stake presidency from the ward/stake in which their records are located. Currently-serving missionaries will have one interview with their mission president. Start the endorsement process online at endorsement.byu.edu.

Non-LDS applicants have the option of completing the endorsement with their own religious leader or with a local LDS bishop, branch president, or mission president (to locate these ecclesiastical leaders, enter your address into the meetinghouse locator tool⁷²). Once you have decided how you would like to complete the endorsement, go to endorsement.byu.edu. There you can select a local LDS leader and complete the process using the online tool, or you may request a paper form to take to your preferred religious leader.

Seminary/Institute Attendance

This part of the application allows the applicant to record their seminary and/or institute attendance. There are two ways to complete this portion:

Students who are currently attending seminary will not fill out this portion of the application themselves. They will be required to download the instruction sheet found on this part, and take it to their seminary teacher, who will then complete the recommendation. If this portion is completed by the applicant instead of the seminary teacher, it will not be accepted.

Students who are not currently attending seminary will fill out this portion of the application themselves. They will also fill out the institute portion of this section. Applicants who did not attend institute because they were taking religion classes at another CES institution may explain their situation on the institute section of the application, and will not be penalized.

Extracurricular Activities

This portion of the application allows applicants the opportunity to describe the activities they have been involved in since beginning high school (age 14+), in the following areas:

- Art
- Athletics
- Church leadership and awards
- Community service/school leadership awards

Financial Verification for International Applicants

International students who are admitted to the university will need to verify finances covering the cost of attendance for the first year. Students will need to complete the following requirements:

Deposit Policy

In order for students to be successful academically at BYU, they must have a solid financial plan. All international applicants for undergraduate degrees are required to deposit $4,000 in an escrow account at BYU following notification of their admission. Students will not be able to register for classes, nor will any student visa paperwork be initiated until the deposit is paid. Read the full Deposit Policy here⁷⁴.

Financial Verification

All admitted international students are required to provide verification of financial ability. Admitted international students must complete the affidavit of support accompanied with the most recent copy of a bank statement for them and/or their sponsor. A registration hold is placed on the student's file until finances have been adequately proven.

Sponsors

Generally speaking, international students require the support of a sponsor to prove financial ability. Students are responsible for securing this sponsor (i.e., parents, government, other). This individual(s) should be a viable financial resource to the student.

International Students

Visa Policy

Once an international student has been admitted to a degree-seeking program at BYU, and completed the financial requirements, the university will provide the necessary visa application materials. If a student's visa application is denied, BYU will not intervene in the process, unless the government requests additional information directly from the university.

Admitted international students with a B-1/B-2 or F-2 visa will not be permitted to enroll at the university until they have secured F-1 visa status. Students should not attempt to enter the United States as a degree-seeking student without presenting a Form I-20, Form I-94, and valid passport.

Why BYU

CES Honor Code

Brigham Young University, Brigham Young University - Hawaii, Brigham Young University - Idaho, and LDS Business College exist to provide an education in an atmosphere consistent with the ideals and principles of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. That atmosphere is created and preserved through commitment to conduct that reflects those ideals and principles. Members of the faculty, administration, staff, and student body at BYU, BYU - Hawaii, BYU - Idaho, and LDSBC are selected and retained from among those who voluntarily live the principles of the gospel of Jesus Christ. Observance of such is a specific condition of employment and admission. Those individuals who are not members of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints are also expected to maintain the same standards of conduct (except church attendance.) All who represent BYU, BYU - Hawaii, BYU - Idaho, and LDSBC are to maintain the highest standards of honor, integrity, morality, and consideration of others in personal behavior. By accepting appointment on the faculty, continuing in employment, or continuing class enrollment, individuals evidence their commitment to observe the Honor Code standards approved by the Board of Trustees "at all times and . . . in all places" (Mosiah 18:9).

Why BYU

Devotionals and Forums

University devotionals and forums form an inspirational and integral part of the university experience. These assemblies are occasions to celebrate the shared sense of community and values in the university. Participation in these gatherings will renew spiritual commitment and extend knowledge of significant religious, intellectual, and cultural matters.

Devotional speakers, selected from the leaders of the Church as well as the university personnel, come to teach the gospel and affirm the spiritual dimension of the university experience for students, faculty, and staff.

Forum speakers are noted authorities in the arts, sciences, humanities, media, and government. They are chosen for their contributions to their field and their ability to communicate their insights. Participation in these assemblies (and in the discussion sessions that may accompany them) prompts inquiry into an understanding of significant intellectual, cultural, and social issues.

Devotionals are held every Tuesday at 11:05 a.m. Most campus offices and services are closed during university devotionals and forums so that members of the university community may participate.

Why BYU

Honors Program

The BYU Honors Program offers exceptional opportunities for highly motivated students to pursue academic work that enhances their interests and abilities. The program is campus wide, encompassing all undergraduate colleges.

The Honors Program is deeply committed to a liberal arts education, encouraging students to become immersed in great works of literature, art, music, theater, science, technology, and film. Most honors courses fulfill core requirements. These courses are taught in intentionally small class sections that offer students one-on-one discussions with some of the university-s most distinguished faculty. Additionally, honors students have the opportunity to complete a service project, to participate in Honors Program social activities, and to capstone their disciplinary focus with an honors thesis based on research or creative work within their specific major.

Why BYU

Nondiscrimination Statement
